"I'm really lucky," Lindsay gushed of husband Bader. "I found my partner and he's an amazing man and we're a great team."

Lindsay's BABY JOY

Lindsay Lohan is taking on her biggest role yet — motherhood! On March 14, the Parent Trap star, 36, announced that she and husband Bader Shammas are expecting their first child by posting a photo of a onesie with the words "coming soon" written on it to Instagram. "We are very excited for our new family member to arrive," she tells Life & Style, "and we are looking forward to this next chapter of our lives." According to a source, Lindsay's a few months along and feeling great. "She had a little bit of morning sickness in the beginning but seems over it now," says the source, adding that businessman Bader, 36, is taking good care of the actress. "He cooks her breakfast in the morning, an omelet with Portobello mushrooms or pancakes with berries, and makes sure she's getting plenty of rest." As for the baby's gender, Lindsay is hoping for a girl while Bader wants a boy, shares the source: "At the end of the day, though, she'll be happy with either." While the couple, who quietly tied the knot in 2022 after an eight-month engagement, haven't picked out names yet, "they are searching through baby books to find ones they like," says the source. "Lindsay and Bader plan on having a couple of children. They're just getting started!" L&S

"Welcome to the Mommy Club," pal Paris Hilton commented on Lindsay's pregnancy announcement.

Tom: SHOW ME THE MONEY!

Reality checks! "He's in a great position to renegotiate his contract with Bravo," blabs an insider.

Ratings gold! Tom Sandoval might be one of the most hated men in America right now, but with fans tuning in to watch his affair with Raquel Leviss unfold on Vanderpump Rules, he's found a silver lining amid the scandal. An insider claims that Tom, 39, is demanding more money from Bravo if they want him to return next season. "He's been throwing mini tantrums about having to film because there's no getting around the ugly truth," says the insider. "It's humiliating, he's embarrassed and has to take the heat from everyone on a national stage." But for the right price, Tom could be persuaded to continue. "While fans loathe him, he's the center of all the drama and will be the reason why they watch the reunion and following season," the insider notes. "Tom's already given Bravo an ultimatum."

throwback! PROPERTY BROTHERS

They have a show all about their sibling rivalry, but, deep down, Property Brothers' Drew and Jonathan

Scott share quite a bond. "The big thing I love about being a twin is you have a built-in best friend — someone that I can whine to, laugh with," Drew admitted. "I think that's a good thing."

Jen's PRISON DIARY

"I didn't think I'd make it through [the] day," she said of life behind bars.

The day had finally come. On Feb. 17, Jen Shah reported to Federal Prison Camp Bryan in Texas to begin her 78-month sentence for wire fraud. "I turn to get one last glance at my husband [Sharrieff] and son [Omar]. I wave at them for the last time before I enter the doors," the Real Housewife, 49, recalls in her online diary. "I thought I could do this, but I've decided I can't. I want to go home right now, but I know that is impossible." That night, Jen cried herself to sleep in a top bunk bed. "As I stare into the dark, I think this has to be a dream," she writes. "But here I am. I keep thinking this is insane, completely ridiculous. Why am I here? I am here because of my bad decisions. There is no one to blame but me."

Shawn & Sabrina IT'S ON!

Undercover lovers! After weeks of speculation about a brewing romance between Shawn Mendes and Sabrina Carpenter, the pair were spotted on March 9 leaving Miley Cyrus' Endless Summer Vacation album release party in Beverly Hills together. "You should've seen them. They couldn't take their eyes off each other," blabs a source. "Shawn barely left Sabrina's side, and they were so touchy-feely." The "Never Be Alone" singer, 24, was first linked to his fellow pop star, 23, in February after celeb gossip account Deuxmoi got a tip about their post-Valentine's Day dinner. "Shawn and Sabrina have been out for cocktails and hang out at his place in LA," adds an insider. "They're going with the flow and having a blast."

"Shawn and Sabrina have been hooking up for a couple of months," spills a source.

Too little, too late? "MGK knows he messed up," says a source.

MGK & Megan THE RING IS OFF!

Ouch! Megan's engagement ring was designed to hurt if she took it off. "The bands are actually thorns," MGK told Vogue.

Going solo! Just a few weeks after Megan Fox hinted at Machine Gun Kelly's "dishonesty," the actress, 36, showed up to Vanity Fair's Oscars after-party in Beverly Hills on March 12 without her fiancé, 32, or the diamond and emerald engagement ring he proposed with in 2022. "Megan was definitely sending a message," a source tells Life & Style. "She hasn't been wearing her ring anywhere. It's safe to say that she and MGK are on a break." While Megan denied cheating rumors after fans began pointing the finger at MGK's guitarist, Sophie Lloyd — "There has been no third-party interference in this relationship of any kind," she insisted — the famous duo, who have described their "very intense" romance as both "ecstasy and agony," still have a lot of issues to work out before walking down the aisle. "Megan and MGK are currently in couples therapy, so there's some hope, but don't hold your breath for a wedding happening anytime soon," admits the source. "Though some friends say Megan and MGK are trying to patch things up, others believe there's simply no fixing the relationship, they're done." LS

Kate & Justin ENGAGED?

Their red-carpet debut had some extra sparkle! When Kate Bosworth and boyfriend Justin Long arrived at Vanity Fair's Academy Awards fête in Beverly Hills on March 12, onlookers couldn't help but notice the huge rock on her ring finger. While Justin, 44, and Kate, 40, haven't made an official announcement, the actress did hint at an engagement on Instagram, thanking her nail artist for "the most important manicure" to date. "Justin and Kate are not only in love, they're also pretty much inseparable. Nobody would be surprised if they already got engaged," says a source. "He can't stop gushing about her, telling friends and family that he's found his person. And she feels the same way about him."

Busted! Kendall Jenner and Bad Bunny were caught leaving Beyoncé and Jay-Z's Oscars afterparty at the Chateau Marmont in West Hollywood in the early hours of March 13 in the same car. "It began as a fling," dishes an insider. "But they're really starting to fall for each other now." Though the pair are both coming out of long-term relationships — the model, 27, broke up with on-again-off-again boyfriend Devin Booker in October, and the singer, 29, recently split from girlfriend Gabriela Berlingeri — "they love spending time together when they're both in LA," says the insider.

Looking Back

"Dear younger me, please don't be afraid to ask for help," Selena captioned a photo of herself as a child star on Barney on March 8.

After years of projecting strength amid health and love woes, Selena Gomez admits life in the public eye hasn't been easy

Selena's Untold Story

Learning From Her Mistakes

"If you are broken, you do not have to stay broken," Selena has said.

The comments were brutal. "Definitely pregnant," "I would skip lunch," and "She got bigger" were just a few of the hurtful jabs written after Selena Gomez posted photos of herself on Instagram enjoying a night out following the Golden Globes in January. The singer-actress hit back, explaining in a February TikTok Live that her weight fluctuates due to meds she takes for the autoimmune disease lupus. "My medications are important, and I believe that they're what helps me," she declared, adding, "Not a model, never will be."

While Selena seemed to brush off the criticism, weeks later she got honest about how all the hate and body shaming — which stretches back years — have really affected her. "I lied. I would go online, and I would post a picture of myself, and I would say, 'It doesn't matter. I'm not accepting what you're saying,'" she said on the March 10 episode of Apple TV+'s Dear... Yet, in reality, Selena confessed, she was actually "crying my eyes out because nobody deserves to hear those things."

Now, at 30, the former child star "is sharing the real story of what it was like growing up in the public eye — how it hasn't been pretty," says a source. Though she's long attempted to put a positive spin on things, "she's admitted to her friends, 'I've been lying to my fans for years.' Her life may look glamorous from the outside, but fame almost destroyed Selena."

DESPERATE FOR HELP

She started to piece herself back together in 2016 when she spent 90 days at a Tennessee mental health facility. "My self-esteem was shot. I was depressed, anxious. I started to have panic attacks," Selena later shared, further revealing that the social media scrutiny she received as a celebrity only made things worse. "I had everything," she admitted, yet "I was absolutely broken inside."

Selena — who has been acting since the age of 7 — put up a façade and kept it together for her fans

"to where I would never let [them] down," she explained, "but I kept it too much together to where I let myself down."

Despite all the therapy — five days a week at first — and self-care work she was doing, her mental health suffered another blow in 2018. Selena was hearing voices and went into a psychosis. "It felt like all of my pain and my anxiety washed over me all at once, and it was one of the scariest moments of my life," she later said.

She sought support at a medical facility where she was diagnosed with bipolar disorder. In recent months, Selena has revealed that she's been to a total of four treatment centers and even contemplated suicide for a few years, confessing, "I

Selena's noted that when she's off her lupus medication, "I tend to lose weight."

2023

When she's taking meds for her autoimmune disease, "I tend to hold a lot of water weight," Selena recently said.

She's STILL Dealing With Justin Drama

In February — five years after Selena and Justin split — social media users alleged that she and his wife, Hailey, were at odds. The speculation ramped up after an old, recently resurfaced video of Hailey pretending to gag when Taylor Swift was mentioned inspired Selena to defend the singer, a longtime close friend. Fans also accused Hailey and pal Kylie Jenner, 25, of mocking Selena's laminated eyebrows in separate posts. Selena tried to distance herself from the drama by taking a brief break from social media "because this is a little silly," she told her followers. "I'm 30 and am too old for this."

thought the world would be better if I wasn't there."

TAINTED LOVE

Yet that wasn't all she was dealing with. Selena also faced a debilitating physical health crisis — in 2017, she underwent a kidney transplant due to lupus complications — while from 2010 to 2018, she was attempting to navigate a toxic on-off relationship with fellow pop star Justin Bieber, 29. The "Lose You to Love Me" singer would later allege that she was "a victim" of emotional abuse when they dated. Though Justin never responded directly to Selena's claim, he did admit on Instagram that he "started doing heavy drugs at 19 and abused all my relationships" as he battled growing fame and became "resentful, disrespectful to women and angry." The "Baby" artist — who humiliatingly married model Hailey Baldwin, 26, mere months after calling it quits with Selena for good — added that it had taken him years to address his "relationship habits."

But Selena eventually found healing. She even posed with Hailey in October to refute talk of a long-standing feud. "She's come to terms about her and Justin's relationship and why it was destined to end," says the source, noting that the Rare Beauty founder accepts that she "wasn't ready to fully love someone properly or to be loved." Today, adds the source, "she's at peace with that part of her life now and hates when she's dragged into drama with Hailey." (See sidebar.)

Selena has different priorities these days. In fact, in many ways, she's started over at 30. "Her health and her career are her focus. She wants her 30s to be very productive," explains the source of Selena's ambitions related to acting, producing and making music, as well as growing her cosmetics brand and being an even greater advocate for mental health. "It's all about having a clean slate. She's definitely looking forward to the future." L&S

Only Murders in the Building ADDS MORE STAR POWER!

Last year, Only Murders in the Building star Selena scored her first Emmy nomination — an Outstanding Comedy Series nod for executive-producing the hilarious Hulu series. Now she's busy shooting Season 3 with Steve Martin, 77, and Martin Short, 72, as well as some new additions to the cast, including Grey's Anatomy hunk Jesse Williams, 41, Emily in Paris actress Ashley Park, 31, and the legendary Meryl Streep, 73. "Selena is really excited about the next season," says an insider. "She says there will be some really fun surprises."

Figuring out finances put a snag in Adele's wedding plans with sports agent Rich Paul...

It was huge news for Adele fans who'd missed the singer's Las Vegas show or simply wanted to see it for the second, third or seventh time. On March 15, just days before her residency at the Colosseum at Caesars Palace was slated to close, local newscasters reported the 34-year-old planned to extend her Sin City run with dates in the fall and, perhaps, even the summer.

Seeing as Adele was paid an estimated $240 million up-front for her five-month gig, the extension could be very lucrative. While that's great, it adds more fuel to the fire — or cash to the pile — when it comes to her prenuptial agreement with fiancé Rich Paul. "It's a touchy subject: Adele has a few trust issues, which is normal for her, but bringing up a marital contract caused some friction between them," says an insider. "She believes in love, and she says talking about anything to do with money is a sure-fire romance killer. She was right. They've argued about it — and that only raised more red flags."

A LOT TO PROTECT

Though it might make for uncomfortable dinner conversation, having that chat is crucial for the star to protect herself. In addition to the money from the residency, her four albums have raked in $31 million in sales, plus an extra $34 million in digital singles. And that's before you add in the hundreds of millions of dollars she's earned from tickets for her tours. Then there's her tony real estate portfolio, which

Pricey Roadblock

"Adele and Rich are moving forward with their 'I do's. Everything seems to be set, the dress, the vows, the location," says an insider. "A prenup has been the last detail to iron out before their spring vows in LA."

MA!

Wedding Bells Already Rang at Her Show...

Say hello to Adele the wedding singer! Super fan Evan Koris made his dream of having the Grammy winner perform at his "I do's" a reality on March 3. After tying the knot at Caesars in the afternoon, he and new wife Gaby hightailed it to Adele's Vegas residency, where she sang "When We Were Young" while signing the Sacramento, Calif.-based bride's dress.

includes two town houses in London valued around $14 million and three Beverly Hills abodes totaling upwards of $30 million. She and Rich, 41, also moved into a $58 million mansion that Adele reportedly funded last year. All in, her net worth is believed to be a staggering $220 million.

Rich is no slouch, either. A top sports agent, with clients like LeBron James, he's worth an estimated $120 million himself. "But he's more famous now because of Adele — so some friends worry he's using her," spills the insider. "Adele doesn't believe it. Still, her pals convinced her that the smart thing to do is to get an ironclad prenup."

That's sound advice, considering she seemingly didn't have one with ex-husband Simon Konecki. When the pair finalized their divorce in 2021, the Drop4Drop CEO, 48, was theoretically entitled to half of everything Adele made during their marriage. While details of the settlement were never released, it did not include alimony. "Now she just wants to play it safe," says the insider. "A prenup's signed, and Adele and Rich put it behind them... hopefully." L&S

Lesson Learned?

With her first husband, Simon, Adele allegedly didn't protect herself with a prenup. They were together for at least six years before tying the knot in 2018.

Riley to

BAC GRA

The family fight over late Lisa Marie Presley's estate gets uglier and uglier by the day

Devoted Daughter

"Riley refuses to back down and feels she's doing what her mother would have wanted," says an insider. "Priscilla turned a blind eye to Lisa Marie's struggles for years — so it's no wonder she changed her will."

Almost 50 years have passed since Priscilla Presley and ex-husband Elvis finalized their divorced. But in Netflix's newest animated series, Agent Elvis — a fictionalized tale about the King of Rock 'n' Roll joining a spy force, which his former spouse co-created and voices herself in — the pair's characters are seen locking lips.

Priscilla:

K OFF, GRANDMA!

Ice Queen

"Riley is telling people close to her that she is shocked by how cold Priscilla has been since Lisa Marie's death," spills the insider. "Things have turned nasty, quickly."

There's little hope of Priscilla and granddaughter Riley Keough kissing and making up anytime soon, though. Since the unexpected death of Elvis and Priscilla's only child, Lisa Marie Presley, in January, the women have been locked in a bitter legal battle over control of her estate — with $35 million in insurance policies and more at stake.

"Riley is calling Priscilla cruel, selfish and money-hungry," an insider tells Life & Style. "Priscilla is used to getting her way, so she's slightly surprised that Riley is fighting back. Riley has typically preferred to stay above the fray, but the fact that she's seeing this through shows how passionate Riley is about it. She's sending a message to her grandmother — back off, because I am not backing down."

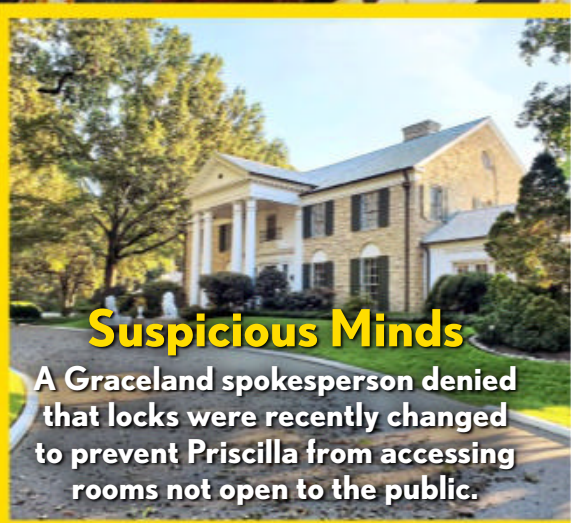

DEVIL IN DISGUISE?

A 2016 amendment to Lisa Marie's will resulted in Riley, 33, becoming the sole trustee upon her mother's passing at the age of 54. However, Priscilla, 77, who had previously been an executor, is disputing the "authenticity and validity" of the appointment in court. Tensions have grown so much that word spread the relatives were no longer speaking and that the Daisy Jones & The Six actress changed the locks at Graceland to keep her greedy grandma out of the family's legendary estate in Memphis, Tenn.

While the latter rumor ultimately proved to be untrue, "Riley has effectively banned Priscilla from the property," reveals the insider, noting Lisa Marie retained ownership of money-maker Graceland up until her death — despite losing the bulk of her famous father's $100 million fortune. "Riley and Lisa Marie were incredibly close, but there

Suspicious Minds

A Graceland spokesperson denied that locks were recently changed to prevent Priscilla from accessing rooms not open to the public.

was always friction between them and Priscilla. Priscilla's court antics were the last straw for Riley. She's done with her grandmother always putting herself first." L&S

Michael Enters the Court Battle

Lisa Marie's fourth ex-husband, Michael Lockwood, has thrown himself into the messy mix. As the father of the late star's youngest children, twins Harper and Finley, 14, the 61-year-old musician filed a petition on March 12, to represent the girls' interests in the estate. Michael and Lisa Marie were married from 2006 to 2021 and went through a brutal custody battle that was only settled last year. "The will war is just heating up," says a source, adding that Michael is reportedly on Priscilla's side. "Riley plans to continue the fight against them both while doing everything she can to protect her sisters."
